DEDICATION

Harold S. Smith; retiring after 42 years of service

Harold S. Smith, a native of Wisconsin, received his bachelor's degree in History from Kentucky State University and his graduate degrees in same field, the Master of Arts and the Doctor of Philosophy, from the University of Wisconsin. Since 1936, he has taught at Kentucky State University and was Chairman of the History and Political Science from 1958 to 1977. His area of interest in teaching has been World Civilization and English History. During his tenure as department chairman an Afro-American Studies Program was developed, the Frankfort Semester Program was originated, and internship program in State government which was subsequently taken over and continued by the Kentucky State Department of Personnel and incorporation with several other departments, an interdisciplinary graduate program was initiated that grew into the present highly successful School of Public Affairs.

In 1974, Governor Julian Carroll appointed Dr. Smith to Historic Preservation Review Board, a professional body of historians, architects, and archaeologist, which evaluates nominations of historic structures and districts for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places. For many years Dr. Smith has been active in the Kentucky Division of the United Nations Association and the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History. He was the recipient of the Kentucky State University Distinguished Alumni Award in 1969.

Dr. Smith's off-campus activities have included many public service responsibilities. Since 1974 he has represented Franklin County on the Bluegrass Area Development Board, the body which makes recommendations to the federal government concerning request for funds arising from city and county governments and semi-public agencies in seventeen central Kentucky counties.

As layman in public health, Dr. Smith has been for a number of years a member of the Bluegrass Mental-Health Retardation Board serving a seventeen county area in central Kentucky. He is also chairman of the Bluegrass West Comprehensive Care Center for seven counties adjacent to Frankfort and Franklin County. Related to his interest in public health is his membership on the State Merit System Council for Local Health Departments. He has also served a term on the board of the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

For 42 years Dr. Smith has contributed to the intellectual stature of generations of students at Kentucky State University and to the physical and mental health needs of the residents of central Kentucky because of this service we dedicate the 1977-1978 THOROBRED YEARBOOK in his honor.

PRESIDENTIAL REVIEW OF 1977-78

The 1977-78 academic year was highlighted by phase one of a campus beautification program. Two women's dormitories, Chandler and Kentucky Hall, were closed for extensive renovations and are scheduled to be ready for occupancy during the 1978 academic year. The new entrance was completed along with a adjacent parking lot. Landscaping of the area under Hathaway Hall (classroom building) was started and the new 6,200 capacity Alumni Stadium with a field house was completed. The President's home was renovated and enlarged.

Plans for other construction projects to be completed or initiated during the school year 1978-79 were also completed. These include a new administrative services building, classroom building, pedestrian mall, a chilled water plant and a maintenance warehouse building. We feel with the improvements already completed or initiated, coupled with the proposed projects, in about 10 years, Kentucky State University will have one of the most beautiful campuses in the Commonwealth and within the region.

The academic program is the heart of the University. Review and reorganization of the academic programs and departments were the most significant changes to occur in this area. These changes should result in overall improvements in the Instructional program.

The University also experienced some success in the area of fund-raising during the year. The most significant accomplishment was the receipt of $406,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Michigan to enhance the business and economics program.

Overall, 1977-78 represented the beginning of a new era for Kentucky State University. The University received a new mission statement which will require a thorough review of an, in some cases, revisions in all areas. We certainly look forward to 1978-79 and to the many challenges and further developments which it holds.

VICE PRESIDENT FOR ACADEMIC AFFAIRS

DONALD F. BLAKE

The academic program at Kentucky State University is committed to providing a quality education for the students which we serve. For almost 90 years the University has endeavored to meet its students at the level at which they enter the institution and move them to the place where they will be viable and competitive in the work world. Our success can be measured by the alumni who are scattered all over North America in all levels of responsibility in education, business, industry, and government.

Presently we are striving to expand the number of opportunities for educational advancement offered here on campus. The University has always had a basic set of academic experiences, mainly in the liberal arts mode, but we see the urgent necessity to expand these offerings to meet the challenges of a modern technological society. The task facing Kentucky State University and sister institutions is mirrored in the fact that 85% of all of the scientists that have ever lived on the face of the earth are alive today. What is true of science can possibly be said for other disciplines. Within the life time of nearly every person on campus we have gone from a society that was controlled by a six day work week, to one that provides more time for recreation than any other major facet of our life style. Yet, we must educate for the changes of today and those that are in the future.

I have no doubt that Kentucky State University will meet the challenges successfully. We have academic programs that are designed to fully prepare students to master the tasks one will face in the work world of today. These skills can also be the foundation for any career changes that might come to pass in the future.

We fully expect the course offerings to expand and grow with time. We want to train persons to meet some of the shortages in medicine, dentistry, nursing and other health-related professions. There are needs in business, technology, and the basic sciences that we can fulfil. This will be done through new undergraduate and graduate programs. But above all we want to continue to supply the Commonwealth and the nation with the fine graduates that are exemplified in our present alumni.

VICE PRESIDENT FOR BUSINESS AFFAIRS

HERMAN ROBINSON

The Kentucky State University Office for Business Affairs, has the responsibility of maintaining a program of sound fiscal management in order to provide the University with commodities and service that are necessary for the operation and success of all research, academic, and public service programs of the University.

Any college or university, whether it's public or private, or whether its support comes from any imaginable combination of appropriations, gifts, tuitions, investments or endowments, is a unique management entity. It is unique in that the user of its products, the student, is not expected to pay all of its cost and that resources are expected to be expended as fully as is possible to achieve educational goals. Society's commitment to higher education is a mandate to the institution to use its resources for purposes of great social importance.

The success of any of the University's programs depend to a large extent upon the budgeting, planning, and control by the Office for Business Affairs.

Therefore, the ultimate aim of the Office for Business Affairs, is to devise and implement a system which will be continuously revised and improved, to provide the University with financial and management data, to improve the efficiency and accuracy in implementing any of its research, academic, and public service programs.

Beginning the first of next year, some of the things the Office for Business Affairs will be doing is to start implementation of a new accounting system for the University.

The Maintenance Department as well as the Central Office will be involved in new and renovated capital construction projects such as:

- New Academic Service Building (Administration Building)
- New Classroom Building
- Continuation of the Renovation of our Dormitories — which were started this past year.

DEAN OF STUDENT AFFAIRS

SHEPPARD

Dr. Johnny D. Sheppard, as Dean of Student Affairs, is responsible for the administration and coordination of the student personnel program which is performed by specialists in various offices of the department. He is charged with providing leadership and guidance to the following areas: Offices of the Associate Deans of Students, the Counseling and Placement Center, Student Activities, the Health Center and Services and the Financial Aid Office.

As the chief student personnel officer of the University, his function is to administer and coordinate the programs and services of student life as reflected in the various relations of the University policies and services related to student life are put into effect. He serves as chief advisor to the President on matters of University policy pertaining to student life and welfare and keeps the President informed on all matters of concern which occurs in the student personnel area.

The present student service program at Kentucky State University focuses primarily upon providing service to or for students and to a lesser degree on providing programs which contribute to students' educational experiences and self development.

Our changing student population demands that we enhance some of our present programs and services, integrate others that are present on campus, and develop new ones if we are to meet the needs of our students. With the increased number of commuters, veterans, international student, and older students, it is vital that we expand and intergrate programs and services for this new population. Our strategy is to take students, from where they are to where we believe they must ultimately be. The thrust of our strategy is student upward mobility with requisite support diminishing with increasing student self-support (academic and personal) until each student achieves his/her capacities to perform.

The future goal of the Student Services Program, is to continue the usual student services, with no decline in quality while centralizing efforts, expanding programs and services, providing new directions for mutable social needs, and maximizing resources. This goal is consistent with the University's mission of providing the student with specific knowledge and skills for living more effectively in a changing society.

DEAN OF DEVELOPMENT

BERNARD TAYLOR

Alumni Affairs, Public Relations, Publications, Grantsmanship and Governmental Relations, Fund Raising, and the Kentucky State University Foundation, Incorporated with its Emergency Student Loan Program, in the main, comprise the Office of Development. While individually each office has a specific function, as the name implies, together they function toward the realization of a common goal: "expanding institutional visibility through institutional visibility." Hence, programs and services which impact this goal, even remotely, are instigated by the Unit.

Since its establishment in 1976, as a separate administrative unit, significant strides have been made toward accomplishing individual goal-related objectives . . . Alumni support has more than doubled and the number of active Alumni Chapters has also doubled, newsworthy items about the University are receiving greater and expanded coverage, an Office of Publications has been created resulting in a significant improvement in the publications and graphics which leave the campus, additional external funds and other support are being pursued from not only governmental agencies, but also from foundations, corporations, and individuals — a $406,000.00 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation is but one example of the level of support which is being sought — and the Kentucky State University Foundation Incorporated, is providing a new level of support for institutional programs and services. Of particular note is the extent to which the Foundation's Emergency Loan Program is providing service to the University Family.

Priorities for the coming fiscal year include expanding activities in all areas with special emphasis on public relations, publications, and on fund raising, especially in the private sector. Of course, the success of our efforts depend, in a very great measure, to the level of support received from the University Family. Can we count on you?

OFFERING THE KNOWLEDGE OF COMMUNICATION

The Department of Modern Foreign Languages has two primary functions:

1. To offer courses and instruction in French, Spanish, and German for students who must fulfill a foreign language requirement (service function).

2. To provide adequate professional programs for French and Spanish majors who intend to teach in secondary schools or pursue graduate studies.

Although its curricula pertain primarily to the areas of language, literature, and civilization, in composition courses, the instructors place special emphasis on the practical, everyday vocabulary of modern careers and activities. Thus we endeavor to combine theory and practice, intellectual growth and vocational skills.

At present, the Department has five faculty members: four full-time members (two in French and two in Spanish) and one part-time member (in elementary German). Two members of the Department are native speakers of the languages that they teach: Department Chairman Dr. Arsenio Alfaro, (picture right) Spanish, originally from Puerto Rico; Dr. Danielle Thompson, French, originally from Belgium.

SOMETHING OLD, SOMETHING NEW, ART FOR ME, HOW ABOUT YOU?

Throughout the 1977-78 academic year the art faculty and students participated in a number of invitational art exhibits, both individual and group shows. In addition, the Art Department sponsored a highly successful gallery program and visual arts series which included shows of national artists, art workshops, film festival, and lectures.

"Among the inhabitants of the earth A man alone has a spirit. He is the only creature whose essence has beauty when portrayed in symbols."

Mr. Homer Allen is Chairperson for the Department of Art.

AVIATION!! TRY INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

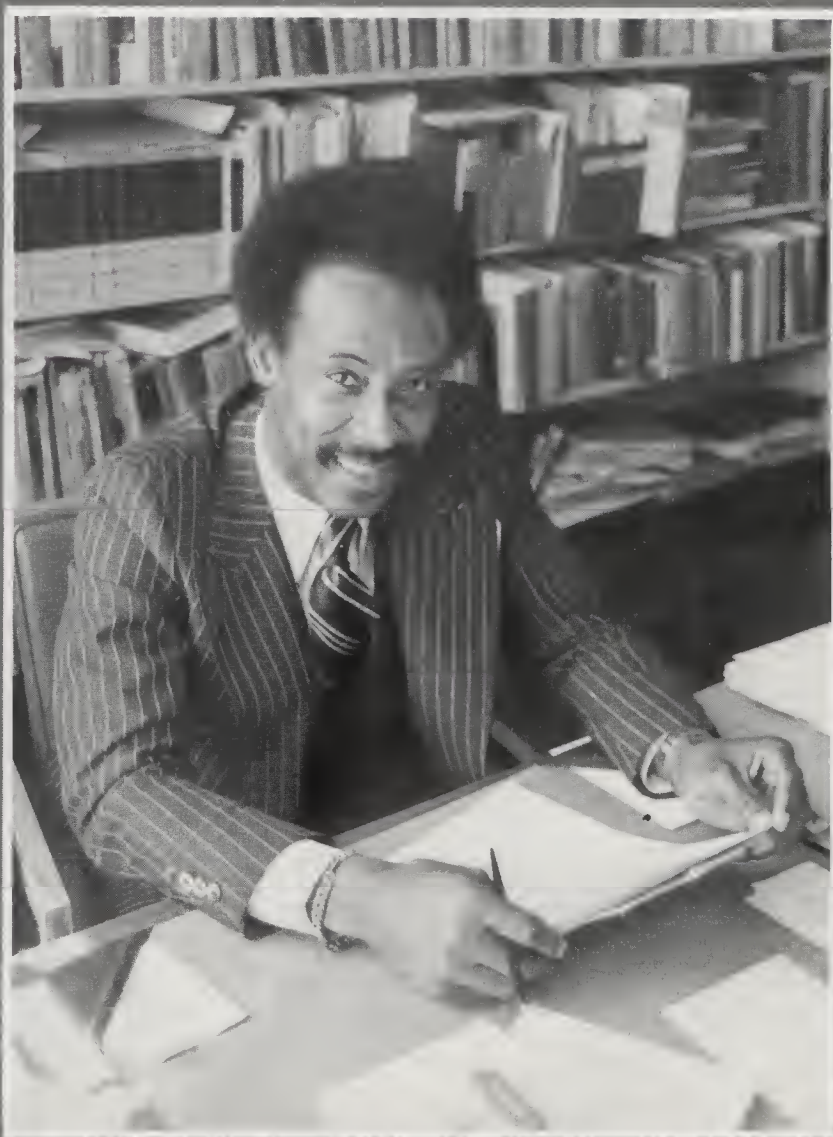

The Department of Industrial Education employs some of the latest innovations in industrial materials, machines and processes, couples with extensive library resources and a well rounded faculty in order to offer programs in several categories. At the baccalaureate degree level, two curriculum options are offered for industrial teacher preparation and two for the preparation of manufacturing technologists. For those who want to pursue regular community college courses, want occupational enrichment, or desire occupational and personal development, the department offers associate degree programs in Aviation Technology, Drafting and Design Technology and Electronics Technology.

Department chairman is Dr. William Bearden

PHYSICALLY EDUCATED + MENTALLY PREPARED = HONOR ROLL

The Department of Health and Physical Education chaired by Dr. Ralph Burns, offers a flexible undergraduate program in the areas of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation. The department offers a sequence of study leading to the B.S. degree enabling graduates to: teach Health — teach Physical Education — Coach — Officiate — pursue graduate studies in Health, physical Education, Physical, Occupational and Recreational Therapy, and Athletic Training.

It further offers a sequence of studies leading to the Associate Degree and Minor in Recreation, with employment possibilities in: Government (Local, State and Federal); Industry; Multiple Voluntary Agencies (Y's Campfire, Scouts, Youth Hostels, etc); Private, and Religious Agencies.

A PROGRAM THAT OFFERS YOU AN OPPORTUNITY TO SLEEP OVER IN THE "PEN"

The Criminal Justice Department has recently introduced a program called "The Student Exposure Program." The program provides students with an opportunity to live a particular phase of the Criminal Justice System, in which, they have studied in the classroom. During the first year, a group of twenty criminal justice majors spent a night and two days at the Kentucky State Penitentiary. During their stay the students were subject to the same conditions as the inmates, including eating, sleeping, and recreation with inmates.

Professor Jessie Crenshaw serves department chairperson.

ADDING AND SUBTRACTING = STRONGER DEPARTMENT

The Department of Sociology, Social Work, and Social Science has revised its curriculum by deleting obsolete courses and adding more relevant ones, thereby providing the students with more options in regard to their course selections.

A minor in Gerontology has been added to the Social Work program, providing students (as well as state government employees) with the opportunity to acquire more knowledge in the area of aging. The addition of the minor is quite timely not only because of the national interest in the plight of the aged, but also a high degree of local interest in this area has been manifested.

In regard to Community Service, most of the faculty members are involved in community projects or activities including, the YMCA, the Red Cross, the Senior Citizens Center, Planning & Zoning Board, Bluegrass Surban Health Council, and the Salvation Army. During the Fall Semester of 1977, this department conducted a workshop on Minority Concerns in Alcohol, friends and neighbors as far as Louisville and Fort Knox, Kentucky attended and participated in the workshop. Finally, during the Spring of 1978, a second workshop was given by the department entitled, Pre-retirement Planning. This activity held the attention of many off-campus persons who played an active role in the planning, conducting, and attending the workshop.

Department chairperson is Dr. Charles Humphrey.

HIGHLIGHTS IN HOME ECONOMICS

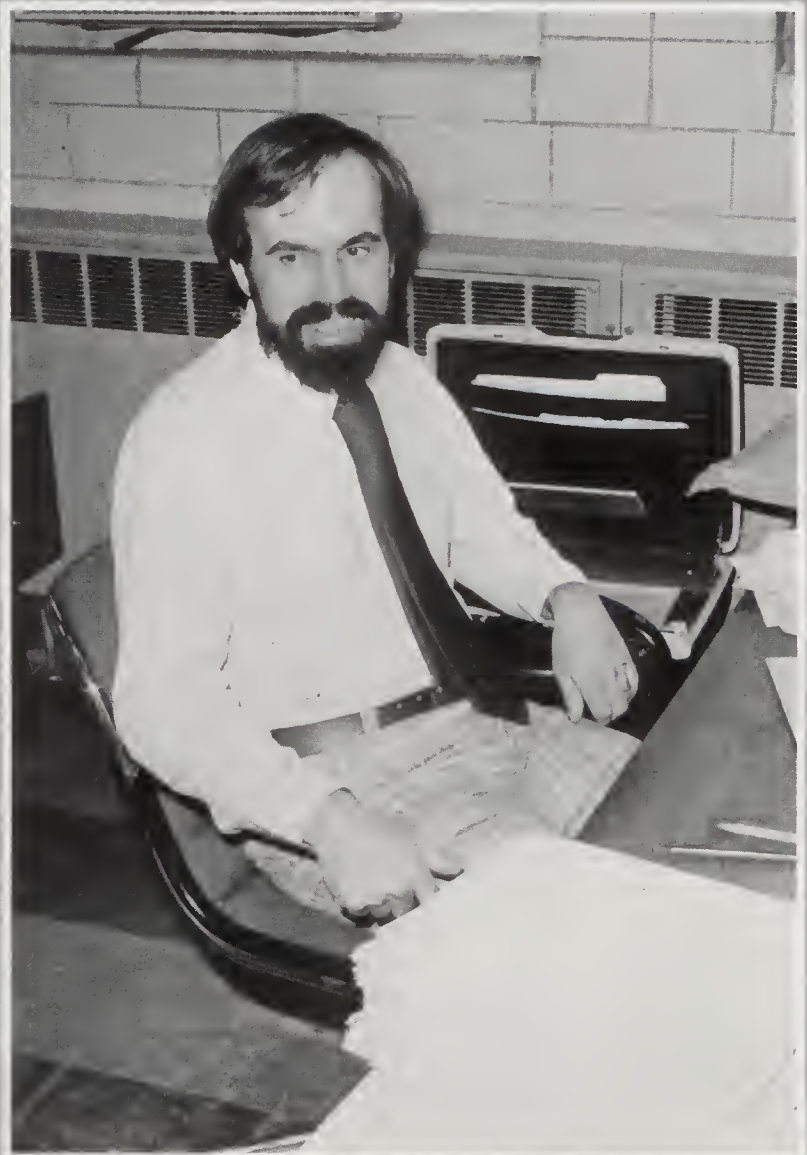

In early Fall, students majoring in Dietetics and Food Service Management, under the chairmanship of Dr. Alpha Jones, journeyed to Atlanta, Georgia to participate in scheduled hearings on "Nutrition Goals for Americans." Future teachers in Home Economics returned to Kentucky State University campus with the 1977-78 Membership Award after the Spring meeting of the Student Section of the Kentucky Home Economics Association at the Hyatt Regency in Lexington March 30-31, 1978. The Kentucky State University Chapter not only recruited the greatest number of new members over all other universities in Kentucky, but also captured the office of Vice President Elect. Deloris Vinegar is the new state Vice President.

A Proclamation signed by Frankfort mayor James C. Birch designating April 2-9 as the Week of the Young Child was presented to the Home Economics Department on March 15, 1978. Participants, in the week long activities of exhibits, lectures and workshops included Preschool and Day Care Administrators and personnel from Frankfort and Woodford County.

MATH DEPARTMENT HOST MATH BOWL

The services of the Department of Mathematics and Physics include a Basic Skills Math Program, major in Mathematics and Applied Science, and the hosting of a regional Math Bowl. Through the Basic Skills — Math Program, students have opportunities to learn basic mathematics and science. Mathematics majors may prepare for graduate study, for occupations in mathematics related areas, and through a Double Degree Program offered in conjunction with the University of Kentucky, careers in engineering.

The Kentucky State University regional Math Bowl is part of a state wide competition among Junior High Schools. Other regionals are held at other state universities, and a state champion is chosen each year in a final contest at the University of Kentucky.

TODAY NASA PROJECTS: TOMORROW THE WORLD

The Biology Department headed by Dr. Gertrude C. Ridgel has benefited significantly by three funded projects: two MBS NIH projects involve an investigation of transformation of normal hamster embryonic cells to tumorous cells by chemical carcinogens, and a study of the effects of certain environmental stresses on mammalian cells and tissues. The NASA project investigators are studying survivorship of DROSOPHILA in oxygen rich and hypobaric atmospheres. Students and faculty research together.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ESTABLISHED

Effective July 1, 1978, the Department of Business and Economics will be elevated to the School of Business. The Department also has received a Kellogg Foundation Grant in the amount of $406,000 to be used, primarily, for faculty development. Dr. Gus T. Ridgel, chairman of the department of business and economics, will serve as project director. "This grant will enable us to increase the quality of departmental faculty," Ridgel said. "It will also enhance teaching effectiveness and it will facilitate our efforts to achieve accreditation by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), the professional accrediting body."

THE PURSUIT OF ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

Chaired by Leonard A. Slade, Jr. (Ph. D. from the University of Illinois), the Department of English has written books, articles for journals, and book review for Kentucky's major newspapers. Several teachers have read papers at national meetings, while others have held national offices in professional organizations and have edited national newsletters and journals.

Since 1972 (when Slade became Chairman) the Department has added eight Ph. D.'s. Graduate degrees were earned at the following universities: Illinois, Notre Dame, Indiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Southern Illinois (Carbondale), Cornell, Iowa, Northeastern, Minnesota, Columbia, and Atlanta.

The Department looks forward to receiving more fellowships and grants for graduate study, traditional research, and improved service.

CARRYING ON A GREAT TRADITION

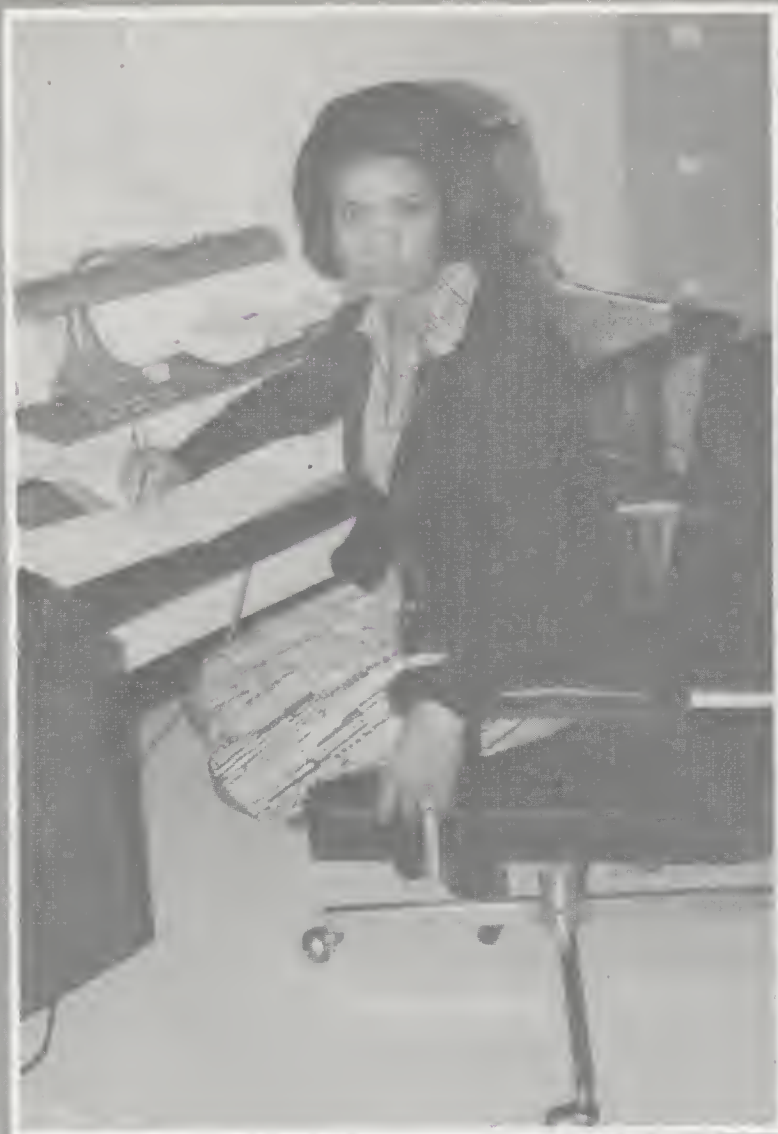

Several milestones were achieved in the Department of Music during the 1977-78 academic year, such as: The Concert Choir, after rigorous competition, was selected to perform at the American Choral Directors Association meeting in Atlanta and received the only standing ovation in the history of the organization. For the first time in recent years, the KSU Marching Band was selected to perform for the Kentucky Derby.

At least one faculty member served on a national commission of the largest professional music society.

An artist-faculty member performed recitals on the campuses of other universities and performed concerto with the Greensboro Symphony Orchestra.

The Department of Music is chaired by Dr. Warren C. Swindell.

CO-ED NURSING PROGRAM ENROLLMENT INCREASING

The Kentucky State University Associate Degree Nursing Program, chaired by Mrs. Patsy O. Turner covers two academic years. The two year curriculum includes general education and professional courses. The program is designed to prepare both men and women to become registered nurses who can function with intellectual and technical competency. It combines studies at the University with planned and guided experience in patient care at 5 different hospitals and 3 Health agencies.

Successful completion of the Nursing program qualifies the graduate to receive an Associate in Applied Science Degree and to write the examination for licensure as a Registered Nurse in the state of Kentucky.

BIGGER AND BETTER THINGS ARE IN STORE FOR THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The Department of Education and Psychology at the present offers two majors: Elementary Education and Psychology. Long-range plans include the addition of the following majors: Early Childhood Education in conjunction with the Home Economics Department, and Special Education. Two student organizations are active within the Department: 1. The Student National Education Association and 2. The Secondary Education Club.

The chairperson for the Department of Education and Psychology is Dr. Alfred Wiley.

THE STAGE IS WAITING FOR YOU

Through the guidance of the Area's Director, Dr. Winona Fletcher; two faculty members, Mrs. Olive Stroud-Sheffey and Mr. Rob Woods; and the two technical assistants, Mrs. Sherry Howard and Mr. John Smith, students who enter into the theatre receive a quality education as well as chances to develop their creativity and imaginations.

During the 1977-78 school year students participated in Dr. Fletcher's major production of Run Little Chillun, an exciting revival of Hajl Johnson's 1938 Federal Theatre Project Play which also starred Mrs. Olive Stroud-Sheffey and Mr. Robert Woods of the Speech and Theatre Faculty and had participants from the Frankfort Community theatre group. In September of that year, students enjoyed an experimental Readers Theatre production of The Battle Of The Sexes, directed by Mrs. Olive Stroud-Sheffey.

SIGNED, SEALED AND READY FOR DELIVERY

General Studies and Academic Support provides an "academic home" for Freshman Orientation, Army and Air Force ROTC, and General Curriculum student advising, so says the unit's director Dean Mable Henderson.

In addition, several programs in this unit work separately and together to extend and deepen the student's university experience. These include Freshman Studies, Co-operative Education, UYA, Special Programs, Testing, Basic Skills, and Pre-Engineering.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

The Kentucky State University Community College offers evening and Saturday classes on the campus, and evening, noon-hour, and Saturday classes off campus, in Frankfort, and in other communities. People who want to enroll in college as full-time or as part-time students, but who cannot attend during the day are provided numerous opportunities to pursue degrees or to work toward meeting special needs through a variety of courses and a variety of schedule opportunities, during the fall, winter, and summer semesters.

Dean of the Community College is Dr. Frank Bean.

DIVERSIFICATION IS THE WATCH WORD

The first School of Public Affairs in the Commonwealth of Kentucky began January 1, 1973 at Kentucky State University. The initial degree offering was the Master of Public Affairs. The School is now the largest public management graduate program in Kentucky, a growth position which increases our academic, research, and public service training impact. The School attracts individuals from the broadest possible social and economic backgrounds, who expect to or already operate in both the public and private sectors. All teaching and research activities are problem-oriented and pragmatic. Professional career options leading to interdisciplinary and specialized training in the development of management and technical skills are offered at the graduate level. A complementary bachelor degree program in public affairs was started in January 1978 at the undergraduate level.

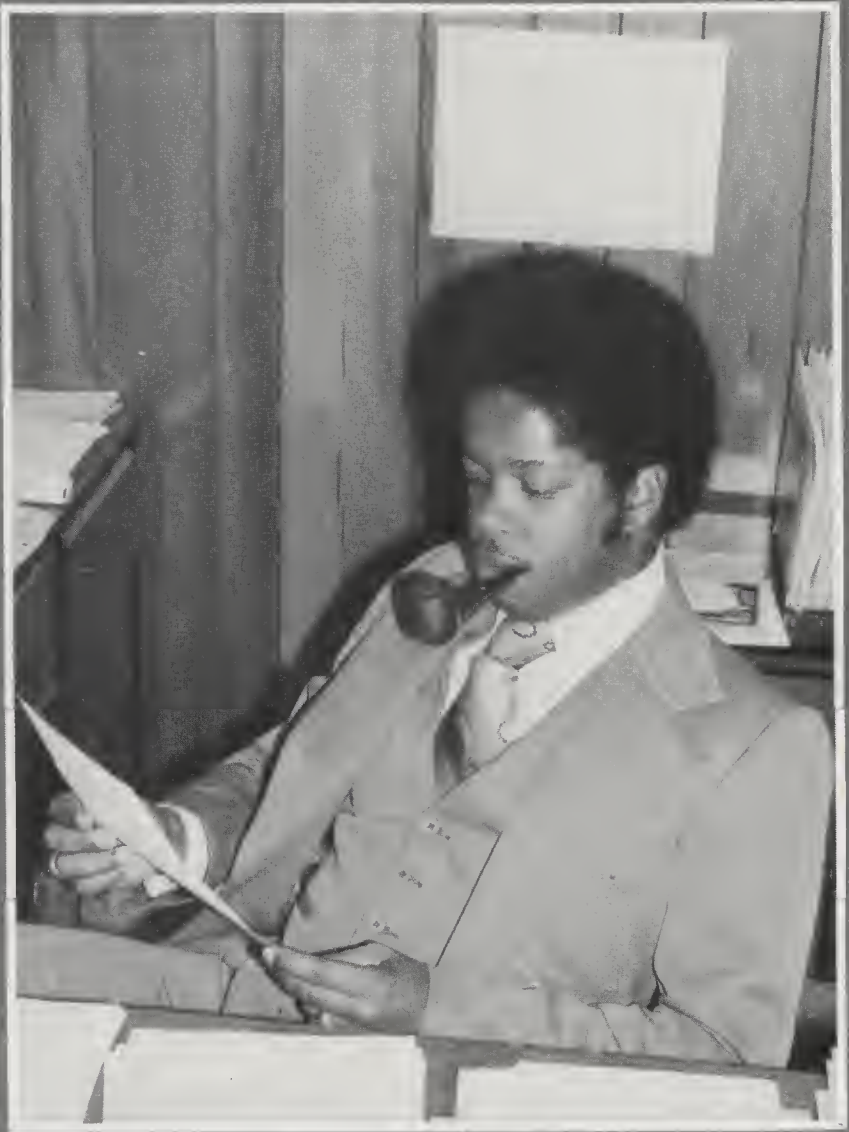

Dean of School of Public Affairs is Dr. James A. Graves.

ANALYZING THE PAST

The Department of History and Political Science occupies the center of the Social Science and Humanity disciplines at Kentucky State University. The primary objective of the Department is to prepare students for vocational opportunities in various fields of education, government service and related areas and for advanced study designed to prepare students more fully in these fields. The Department also attempts to assist each student in developing a frame of reference which makes it possible for he/she to analyze and interpret historical and political phenomena concerning past and current trends and issues which were and which are significant to our daily lives.

Dr. Gary A. McGaha is acting chairperson.

HONORABLE JULIAN CARROLL
GOVERNOR

A SALUTE TO DR. WILLIAM EXUM

RUNNERS TAKE YOUR MARK;
GET SET, GO!!!

On this note the race begins, and it continues on for a lifetime. Dr. William Exum of Gary, Indiana by way of Carbondale, Illinois, has been running for a long time and winning all the way. Racing through life has provided many achievements and downfalls that were overshadowed by the gratification received by being on the inside track and actively participating in ventures which were beneficial to many.

Dr. Exum had always been on the inside track, serving as an assistant manager on the Olympic track team in Munich, Germany in 1972, and head manager of the '76 games in Montreal Canada. Dr. Exum has also served as Co-Chairman of the committee responsible for the color and style selection of the uniforms worn by the '76 Olympians.

Going back down the track Dr. Exum turned the curves as a member of the NCAA Council from 1972 to 1976. Hurdles successful as Chairman of NCAA Council Division Cross-Country Meet Committee and Assistant Manager of the USA Mens Pan-American Olympic Team in Cali, Columbia in 1971

Dr. Exum Sprinted down the field as a member of the Selection Committee of the National Hall of Fame for Track and Field in the United States, and as chairman of the NCAA National Summer Youth Sports Program Committee. He headed towards the tape as a member of the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Committee then jumped off track to serve as chairman of the Frankfort-Franklin County Planning and zoning Commission and as a member of the Mayor's Advisory Committee.

But whether on or off the track Dr. Exum has run a great race. He arrived at K.S.U. in 1949 and worked magic as our Athletic Director, track coach, assistant football coach, basketball coach, tennis and cross-country coach. Dr. William Exum has, after twenty-nine years of service, created an athletic tradition for Kentucky State University and a Legend within himself. Dr. Exum, the man, the basis of a tradition and our legend, we salute you.

EQUALITY IN EDUCATION GOAL OF AIDP

By Barbara Hannah

During the Civil Rights movement it was noted that black schools were not as competitive as white schools, and that something should be done. To help alleviate the problem AIDP, Advanced Institutional Development Program, was begun with the idea of putting more money into black schools. The program, under the Title III, was to help bring about equality in education.

AIDP is incorporated into two phases. First, the basic program, then the advanced program. In its early years with AIDP, Kentucky State was under its basic program. The basic program was not multi-year program, it allowed more for institutional development and there was no stipulation for planning-management.

In 1973, K.S.U. requested the advanced program. The advanced phase of AIDP required that K.S.U. must develop a planning-management development program where-by there would be more efficient management. A grant of 2.3 million dollars was offered K.S.U. with K.S.U. matching it with 1.8 million dollars.

Minerva Figgs, AIDP coordinator for Kentucky State, explained the areas in which K.S.U. was funded beginning in 1974. The areas are Career Advancement, Student Services, Planning Management and Evaluation System.

The Career Advancement portion of AIDP consists of strengthening existing academic programs at K.S.U. and introducing others whereby minorities could be involved in more careers. Two new programs at Kentucky State include Manufacturing Technology and Commercial Music.

The Student Services segment of AIDP provides funds for the counseling center. The funds help the center to expand the staff and offer more help to the student.

The third area in which K.S.U. is funded by AIDP is Planning-Management. In this area all segments of the institution are touched upon. This area seeks to answer the question of how efficiently and effectively each academic department at K.S.U. has done its job. It also addresses the problems associated with allocation of resources and the effectiveness of various programs for students. Planning-Management is supported by Data-Base Management which is concerned with computerized information.

Overall, the AIDP program seeks to make things better for the student and to meet intellectual and personal development along with institutional development.

FORMER ATHLETES INDUCTED

Four Kentucky State University graduates were inducted into the KSU Athletic Hall of Fame during ceremonies Friday, October 7 at 6 p.m. at the third annual Athletic Hall of Fame Banquet.

Inducted were: Sanford T. Roach, Class of '37; Elmer C. Collins, class of '38; James Roscoe Chambers, class of '41; and Clifford Clairborne, class of '60.

Sanford T. Roach, is a former principal of Lexington Junior High School as well as an outstanding basketball coach at Dunbar High School also in Lexington. He was cited for his accomplishments as a basketball superstar in 1936 and '37, when he was captain of the Thorobred cages and named All-Midwest guard and forward.

Elmer C. Collins, recently retired, assistant program manager for Compensatory Education programs for the Cleveland (Ohio) Public Schools, was honored for his achievements on the gridiron, later as boxing coach at Kentucky State University.

James Roscoe Chambers, project director for Educational Talent Search, Miami-Dade Community College, was cited for his brilliance as an end on the Thorobred gridiron during the late thirties and early fourties.

Clifford Claiborne who is administrator of Title I instruction programs for Chicago Public Schools, was honored for performance in football as an All-Midwest offensive and defensive end.

The National Alumni Association sponsored banquet was held in the Carl M. Hill Student Center Ballroom.

HOPES FOR A BETTER DAY

EDITORIAL

"There's a better day coming for Kentucky State University, hallelujah, hallelujah."

This statement, made by our president, Dr. W.A. Butts, left everyone wondering and hoping of the possibility of uplifting K.S.U. to a level of respectability.

Dr. Butts delivered a sermonstyle speech during our first All University Convocation. Dr. Blake opened the assembly with hopes of having a strong year, commenting on the strength of the student body and faculty. But it was Dr. Butts' delivery that touched home.

Dr. Butts spoke of an effort filled future, with full development needed from everyone. He said he favors critics that deal with facts, and emphasized how we shouldn't fight against each other.

"The University is no greater than those who work and study here," said Dr. Butts. Adding that "The character of this University depends on those who fill the chairs of authority." Dr. Butts then shifted directions to point out the responsibilities of the students, stating that "if you are not here for business-you have no business here." He went on to advise the students, "don't be so cool in your life and freeze, that when you thaw out you will drip into oblivion." Dr. Butts went to state that this is not a campus for loafers, nor is it a haven for drugabuse.

Later in his speech Dr. Butts talked about the student-teacher ratio here at K.S.U., and how it didn't comply with the State of Kentucky's norm of sixteen to one. Dr. Butts pointed out that there will be no growth in the size of the faculty but the recruitment of instate students is a must. He went on to talk about the relationship between the faculty and the student body, and how he hopes to enhance that through a faculty-student visitation program.

There's a better day coming for K.S.U., Let's all work together to make this wish a reality.

RECORDS FALL FOR SULLIVAN

By Danny Ray White

Kentucky State Senior quarterback, Curt Sullivan found October 1st, a record setting day. On a day when ball carriers found yardage tough on a rain-soaked field, Sullivan filled the air with spirals, passing his way into the record books. A four-year regular, the All-American candidate and prospect passed for 271 yards against Carson-Newman Saturday afternoon.

Sullivan had a total offense output of 306 in all the 'Breds as a team had 431 total yards. He has a career total of 4,239 total yards and is expected to surpass 5,000 yards total offense by the season's end. After holding the club completion record for two years, Sullivan termed the new record "just another good performance." The pro scouts will think so too, especially after Sullivan surpasses the other Thorobred passing records at the season's end. Nice going Curt!

GOVERNOR RECOMMENDS HISTORIC BUDGET

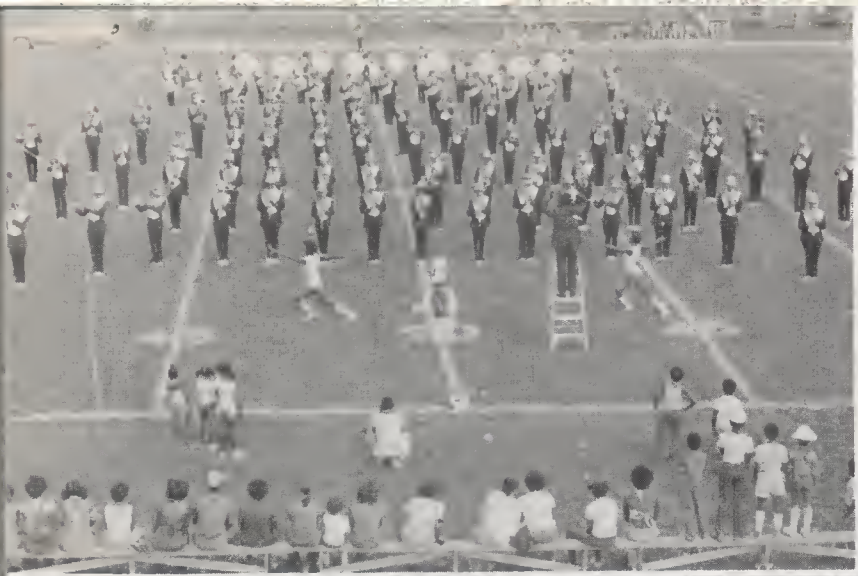

Governor Julian Carroll is living up to his self-image as an "education governor", by recommending that $16.2 million dollars be allocated to KSU over the next two years. Carroll's suggested appropriation is actually $400,000 over the Council on Higher Education's recommendation. Citing the $6 million renovation program currently underway on campus, Carroll explained that the recommended increase is intended to protect the state's investment here. "Over the years, the upkeep of these facilities had been neglected to the extent that the safety of students, faculty and staff was jeopardized," he said. The $400,000 increase will be used toward the expansion of the campus maintenance program. The Council had asked for $7.45 million from the general fund for the 1978-79 fiscal year for K-State and 8.54 million for the 1979-80. Carroll's budget proposal calls for $7.56 million the first year and $8.58 million the second year. (Reprinted State Journal, Frankfort)

"Eventhough this is the largest budget in our history, we are still going to have to tighten our belts over the next two years if we are to accomplish many of our objectives," President Butts Said.

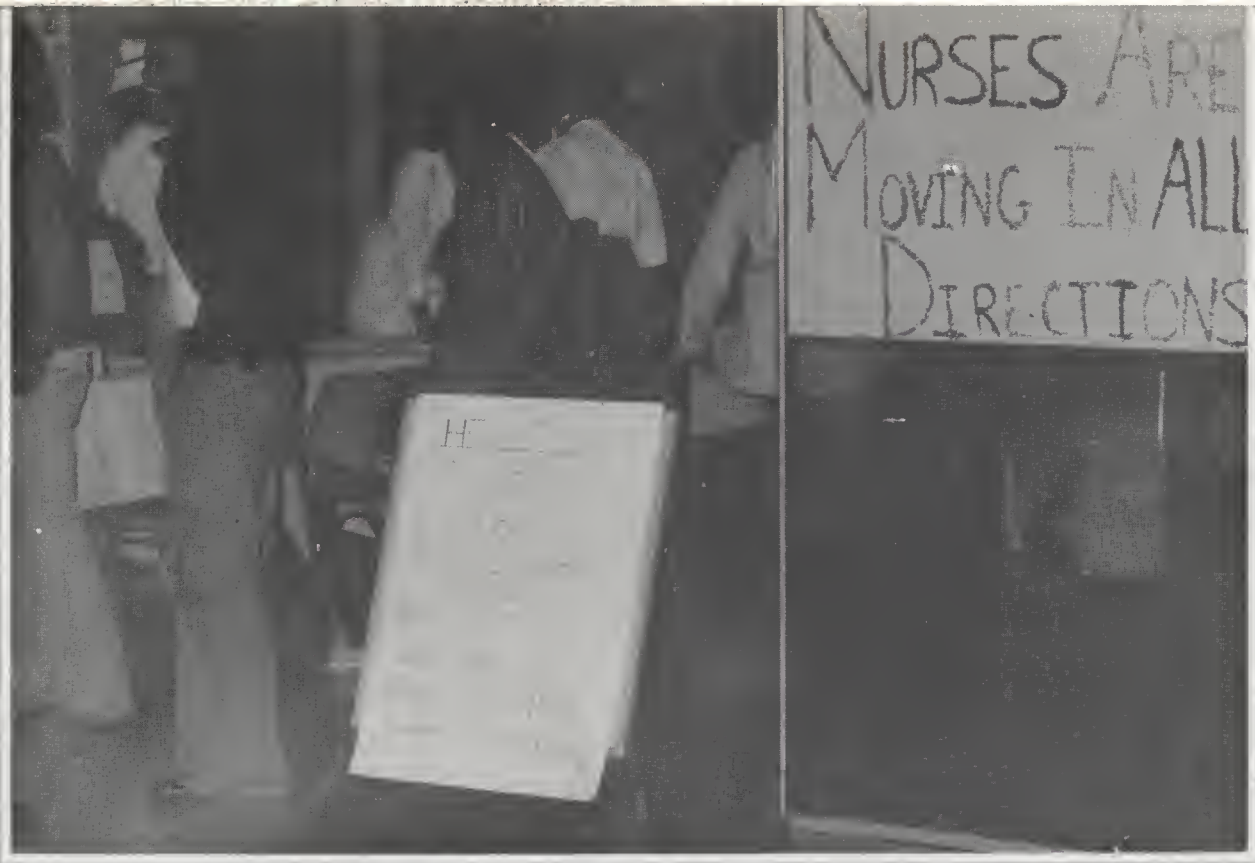

UNIVERSITY RECEIVES LARGEST PRIVATE GRANT IN HISTORY

President W.A. Butts has announced receipt of a grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Michigan, in the amount of $406,000. This grant, to be awarded over the next three years, is to be used to strengthen and expand the University's programs in business and economics. Specifically, the funds will be used for faculty development, faculty salaries, faculty and student travel, consultants, equipment and supplies and for library resources.

"This is the largest private grant in the history of the University," Butts said, "and we are most appreciative to the Kellogg Foundation for its commitment to higher education, especially to institutions like Kentucky State University." We believe that this grant represents the catalyst for our program to attract funds from other external sources, especially in the private sector . . . an area where we have up to now experience minimal success." Bernard Taylor, dean of development, said of the grant, "receipt of a grant of this magnitude from a foundation with the prestige of Kellogg will certainly enhance our efforts as regards the development and submission of proposals to other private agencies . . . our development program has finally gotten that much needed shot in the arm; we can only go up."

ALMA MATER

BY FREDERICK JARMON — '43

Hail to our Alma Mater
Dear is her name,
And there shall be no other
To surpass her fame.
Hers is the hand that guides us
Day after day
And she will stand beside us
When we go on our way.

May blessings be upon her
Shepherd of youth;
She holds the seat of honor,
In the hall of truth.
Memories of her shall never
Fade from our hearts,
And we will praise her ever
For the love she imparts.

Sing every voice together
Let echoes rise,
Hail to our Alma Mater,
Shout to the skies.
Holding the torch of wisdom,
She leads the way
Clasping the hand of freedom
As she marches along.
